Also $50 Diamond Ring to Most Energetic Person, Great Subscription Campaign Starts To-morrow.

For a county paper to do much good it must reach the people—all of the people. The Jeffersonian goes into the homes of a majority of the best citizens of Jefferson county, but we are not satisfied, and will not be, until every representative person in the county is a reader of his home paper. So, to increase our large circulation, we are going to offer some very liberal inducements to the most energetic persons living in Jefferson county outside of Louisville.

From now until September 25, 1909, The Jeffersonian will give 100 votes for each $1.00 paid on subscription, and one vote for each cent paid for job printing from merchants or others who reside or do business in Jefferson county outside of Louisville. To the persons, either man, woman, boy or girl, securing the greatest number of these votes will be given a free trip to Mammoth Cave, and a plan for selecting these persons is outlined in our ad on another page of this issue. The contest is open to every person residing in Jefferson county. Four Magisterial districts in Jefferson county.

Open To Every One.

REPORT

Of the Jefferson County Public School Improvement League.

How It Was Organized and What It Is Doing For the Improvement of Schools in the County.

In the early part of December, 1907, members of the various Federated Clubs of Louisville, held two called meetings at the Woman's Club, the purpose being the consideration of plans for forming a County School Improvement League, as had been advised by the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs.

It was finally agreed to take steps for calling a mass meeting of residents of the county and city to organize the Jefferson County Public School Improvement League.

This mass meeting was held January 11, 1908, in the Roof Garden of the Seelbach Hotel. Mrs. George Avery presiding. The six hundred people present were deeply interested and responsive to the plan as outlined by the County Superintendent, C. C. Stoll. Mrs. Stoll was elected President, a board of Directors formed, and the Jefferson County Public School Improvement League successfully launched.

The first meeting of the new League was held at the Woman's Club January 18, 1908—here the scope of the work was more thoroughly gone over and plans discussed for making the objects of this League clear to the public.

The daily papers lent their assistance and leaflets were sent them and the county stating the purpose of the Jefferson County Public School Improvement League as to be as follows:

First—To secure deeper interest on the part of the people in their schools, which shall result in more liberal support of them and closer cooperation with the teachers.

Second—To secure better school buildings and equipment with larger and well kept grounds.

Third—To help each teacher more fully to meet the need of the district for a beautiful, attractive and interesting school life.

The plan for the accomplishment of all this, is that with the assistance of the County School Superintendent and Trustees and teachers each district shall form a Sub-League known by the name of the school and made up of the teachers, tax-payers and patrons of the school.

To compass successfully such broad and complicated changes as here set out, would obviously necessitate much preliminary work done very slowly and with great care.

In its initial steps the League has succeeded in interesting most of the patrons of the schools, many other residents of the county, who are willingly giving their time and energy to the elucidation of this work.

Every school-house in the county has been visited and its specific needs noted. The teachers and trustees have been approached and their advice and cooperation solicited, large numbers of the patrons have been visited in their own homes and their views and wishes ascertained.

Much literature on the educational movement has been sent out, meetings held and interesting speakers heard at various district meetings. As many as fifty District Committees have been formed and twelve well selected school libraries placed by the League.

In each district where a League has been formed the improvement of the school and yard is a monument to the League.

The objects and endeavors of the League meet with the hearty approval of the County Superintendent, Mrs. Stoll, and all persons having any propositions to offer concerning land should put in their bids no later than the time above named.

Mr. E. R. Sproul is chairman of this committee and E. E. Gooss is secretary, and communications concerning land should be addressed to either of these gentlemen, and they will then be placed before the committee at their meeting and reported at the meeting Saturday night.

SAINTLY MAN
Of God Goes to His Eternal Reward—Rev. Jos. S. Scober Passes Away at Age of Ninety-Two.

The funeral of the Rev. Joseph S. Scober, ninety-two years of age, the oldest member of the Methodist Episcopal Conference, South, who died of heart exhaustion Thursday morning at his home, 202 West Walnut street, Louisville, after a brief illness, was conducted at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon from the Methodist Temple, Sixth and Broadway. The Rev. Dr. B. M. Messick, of the Louisville Alliance church, conducted the services, assisted by the Rev. W. H. Hendrix, of the Union Methodist Temple, and the Rev. T. R. Kendall, of the Lander Memorial church. Burial was in Cave Hill.

The pallbearers were selected from all the Methodist ministers of Louisville and vicinity, all of them being old friends of the Rev. Mr. Scober. Rev. B. F. Orr, of Middletown, also acted as pallbearer.

Mr. Scober was one of the best known ministers of Kentucky, having served the people in many sections of the state. He was pastor of the Jeffersontown church several years ago and a warm friend here who deeply mourns his death. He was a saintly man of God and held some of the most responsible positions in his church.

PROSPERITY

Is Great For the Farmers—Nitt—Writes M. F. J.

Democratic Nominees Best Ever—Meeting at Fern Creek Next Saturday Night—A Bright News Letter.

By M. F. Johnson. Fern Creek, July 12.—"Everybody is now joining in the chorus 'Oh! the rain, the weeds and the grass.' This is a year of great prosperity to the farmer—Nitt. He sold his wheat last fall at 90 cents and his mills do no custom grinding now-days for they lay four for many years, 90 cent wheat at $7.50 to $8.00 per barrel, sell their onions at 50 to 75 cents per barrel, while at 10 to 20 cents per bushel, and bread is not so scarce more than a kind of a crop of berries, they get little more than half price. Verily, the farmer is enjoying the fruits of prosperity and the blessings of a high protective tariff.

The ticket named by the Democrats is conceded to be the best offered by any party for many years, and there is little doubt but it will be overwhelmingly elected from the Farmers (D. W.) for Constable, to the Head (W. O.) for Mayor.

The Democrats of the Second District have no kick coming against the county candidates: Newcomb, Owens, Stivers, Wheeler and Flourish. That is what every one must concede to be a good, clean, honest, capable ticket. When and where was it ever surpassed?

The Democrats of Fern Creek and adjoining precincts are called to meet at the hall in Fern Creek on Saturday night, July 24th, for the purpose of organizing for the campaign. All Democrats are invited. Many of the candidates will be there and address the meeting.

The members of Beulah Sunday-school desire to express their thanks to your past correspondence for its verses in the last Jeffersonian. It was the best effort at verse that has yet appeared. I find that some have misconstrued my meaning in what I said recently concerning consolidated schools and thought I was opposed to the same. Not so. I only asked for discussion. Agitation is the purifier of all public policies.

There will be preaching at Beulah Sunday the 18th, by Rev. Dr. Sutherland and communion service will be held.

At a meeting of the board of trustees of Beulah Sunday school, last week they re-elected Mr. Ephraim Skiles as sexton. Mr. Skiles has heretofore proven his abilities and has given great satisfaction to those who are interested in the cemetery, and the action of the board will certainly be approved by the people.

The railway people have removed the unsightly old car that was used as a freight house and rented a neat little building from the Union Store Co., and remodelled it for freight purposes.

Mrs. Wm. Groves is very dangerously sick and the family and friends have little hope for her recovery.

Value of An Education.

The integrity and fullness of one's own nature after the deposit which was originally made at birth depend upon education. For, if education literally means drawing out, it does, as a matter of fact, represent enrichment. Education aids one to think comprehensively, accurately, truthfully. Education increases the number and growth of one's relationship; it gives self-knowledge, self-reverence, self-development, self-control; it aids in making wise choice; it extends the boundaries of knowledge; it helps to create the citizen who is at home in all lands and under all conditions; it gives a standard and a testimony for judging of values. It aids co-operation, for it promotes an appreciation of men of other conditions; it represents the largest and richest endowment.

One reason that men fall morally is that they find no permanent support in themselves. Lacking self-control, they accept guidance of others and such guidance may be, indeed, by and into forbidden paths. Lacking means of enjoyment in themselves, they turn to objective enjoyments, and these means are liable to be objectionable. Finding themselves rather stupid company, they enter into companionships that are unworthy. Self-worth is a mighty bulwark against accepting unworthy environments and unworthy enrichments.

Never before was the opportunity of the educated man so great as today. Never before was there such a demand for the trained man, the man who can do a thing superbly well. At the door of every vocation is the sign: "Wanted—a man." No matter how many millions are out of employment, the whole world is hunting for a man who can do things. On all sides we see men with small minds, but who are well educated, pushing ahead of those who have greater capabilities, but who are only half educated. A talented man superbly trained often gets the place, when a man with many untrained or half-trained talents loses it.

Never was ignorance placed at such a disadvantage as today. All education which does not elevate, refine, and enable its recipient, is a curse instead of a blessing. A liberal education only renders a racial more dishonest, more dangerous. Educated raciality is infinitely more of a menace to society than ignorant raciality.

Harrod's Creek, July 13.—The Harrod's Creek Grocery Company composed of Messrs. John Trigg and Jesse B. Christner, has disposed of its business to Messrs. Robert H. Hoskins of this place, and Walter A. Chick of Louisville. Mr. Christner will return to his farm on the river road, and Mr. Trigg is as yet undecided as to what business he will enter.

A camping party, comprising Messrs. James Edwards, Judge Frank Peake, J. M. Chilton, Wm. Mix, C. Ogden, Searcy and Hauser, all well known attorneys of Louisville, has pitched its tents on the farm of Mr. Edwards overlooking Harrod's Creek, and having an enjoyable outing.

The farmers who have threshed their wheat have been disappointed in the yield per acre, the average being only about 12 bushels, but the price being so much better than previous years, their income will be about the same.

T. W. Adams has purchased a Case separator and when the sun shines again will be ready to do the threshing for the Goshens farmers.

Mrs. Maxwell Helm and children, of Harrods, have been visiting at Mrs. Helm's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Sherley.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hunt have been called to Mr. Sterling on account of the seriousness of their grandchild, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Thomas.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Whyte died last night of cholera infantum. The internment took place in the Brownsville cemetery.

Our beef is killed right at home.

THE STATE UNIVERSITY

LEXINGTON, KY.

The State University, Lexington, Kentucky, offers the following courses, namely: Agricultural, Mechanical Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Mining Engineering, Classical and seven Scientific courses each of which extends over four years and leads to a Bachelor's degree; also a Department of Law and a Department of Education, which last has been established instead of the Normal School. Persons who enter this department prepare for advanced work in pedagogy and are granted a Bachelor's degree in this subject when completed. The Academy for preparatory instruction is retained.

County appointees receive free tuition, privilege of residence in the dormitories, fuel and light, traveling expenses, if they remain ten consecutive months, or one collegiate year.

The laboratories and museum are large, well equipped, comprehensive and modern. Military Science is fully provided for as required by Congress.

The graduates in the several courses of study readily find employment with liberal remuneration. The total number of matriculates for last year was 1078. Each department has a specialist at its head, with the necessary number of assistants.

Young women find an excellent home, with board and lodging, in Patterson Hall, which is well equipped with all the modern conveniences, bath-room, hall for physical culture, at $3.00 per week. All courses of study in the University are open to women on identical conditions with those applying to males.

The completion of the Agricultural, Mining Engineering, Laboratory and Education buildings afford ample and commodious quarters for these departments, which are rapidly increasing in the number of matriculates.

When a doctor warns his patient not to drink he probably wants to be sure of getting his bill, suggests the Philadelphia Record.

The great satisfaction for an argument is how you contend for all the things you know are right and dispute all things you know are so.

Self-made men, who have harrowing recollections of the hickory, confess the Atlanta Constitution, will insist that compulsory education is as old as the hills.

Now that the grave has closed over the last of notable American slaves, may we not reasonably expect from novelist or dramatist or musician a work which shall worthily interpret the character of the aborigines, and the New York World. The Indian has suffered almost as much from flattery as from detraction. We are to beware of final judgment based upon Cooper and Jackson no less than of prejudices based upon the contemporary and bloodguiltiness of the frontier.
Like other people, our savages were not all good and they were not all bad.

If all men would only regard that every good deed forms an eternal part in the spirit of mankind, they would treasure the good they have done as cherished memories, and not regard any life as fruitless, because every one sometimes does some good, kind or just thing. If all men would regard that an evil deed or an evil thought retards human progress toward truth from freedom they would be less likely to do or to think evil, preaches the New York World. The success or failure of any life depends not on an absolute standard, because human imperfections prevent that. Success is relative to a fault. The man who has done the best which his opportunities and environment permit to make the greatest success that the world allows him. Strive to be more than to "sow in the sea."

It is not altogether the cry of a sex attiling against inequalities and instances which we bear in the assen-sations of various nations, but the state of woman, whether she be considered as citizen or as wife, is the estate of the slave. There would be more sympathy with these spokesmen if that were the case, asserts the New York Mail. As a matter of truth, the demands of their sisters, and they are out of tune with the facts of life. It is in rebellion against the necessities of this workaday world. They accept many of the facts of modern life, but reject reproduction, and they of these two are woven the fabric of existence. The "slavery" against which they protest falls upon the entire household, and is the service rendered to support one's self and to support one's children. The master whose service they would quit has the good name of duty.

Consul General Richard Gwenther, of Frankfurt, notes that at the annual meeting of the Association of German Engineers, lately held at Dresden, announcement was made that the greatest work of coming and publishing the new technical dictionary, which was conducted under the auspices of the association, had to be stopped because it was found that the expenses would amount to more than four times the estimates. Mr. Gwenther adds: "The great progress in science and industries had created a vast mass of new terms and matter largely in excess of what had been estimated at the beginning. This stops it to be greatly regretted, as the want of a new technical dictionary and encyclopaedia is acutely felt by thousands of persons engaged in scientific research, in all lines of commerce and production, in the literature journalist, and in the administration of a municipal government. It is, however, satisfactory to note that the executive board of the Association of German Engineers has made sincere efforts to take up and complete this valuable work, and has succeeded in obtaining therefor the aid of the federal government of Germany and of the Ministry of Education of the Prussian kingdom."

Presently, prophecies the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, our railroads will be closed as their tracks are being seized by Harbinger and those that have been merely investigated by the government.

A LOVER'S ENVY.

I envy every flower that blows
Beside the highway where she goes,
And every bird that sings to her,
And every breeze that brings to her
The fragrance of the rose.

I envy every bird's rhyme
That moves her heart at bedtime,
And every tree that waits for her
The brightest bloom, and here for her
The fragrance of the prime.

I envy every Southern night
That pays her with a moonbeam
And every all the leaves for her
And in their shadow voices for her
A man of day's delight.

I envy none who love her
For a gift, a task that tries,
I only ask to give to her,
That she may love me, and I May live in her heart, in the Century.

anticipation, of his desire to welcome the lady as a permanent resident.

"You are entirely wrong, Jim," cried Mrs. Barklow, "she goes,
and every bird that sings to her,
And every breeze that brings to her
The fragrance of the rose."

"Only," said the imperturbable Barklow, "if she herself wishes it. I fancy she does, you know."

"Of course she does!" said Mrs.
Barklow, impatiently. "But that doesn't make any difference."

"Monstrous!" I suggested, with a timid belief that it was the word she wanted.

"Oh, come, Reynson," said Bark-low, reprovingly.

"Monstrous! That's all the word, Mr. Reynson," said Mrs. Barklow, icily.
"But I will not have it, Jim. You will only encourage mamma and me if you encourage her."

"Well," said Barklow, "we'll see how things go. Anyhow, I don't see a step to be rushed. Is it, Joseph?"

Joseph was the fox terrier. Bark-low nuzzled the dog's head. "It was yet another of the incongruities of the domestic life that Mrs. Barklow admitted Joseph into the house."

As a bachelor, Barklow had done all over the premises, whereas Mrs. Barklow, as any woman, didn't do a dog's work.

"This day, over the wine, Barklow was so low colored that he quite forgot to return to the mother-in-law problem, when he stopped me, "Don't, old chap," he said, "it's dangerous. It's the very thing I wanted until I mottled it. Between ourselves, I'm a trimmer all the time.
It would be an awful life with a woman who wasn't worth it. But—do you understand?"

His smile, as he nodded, was a complete revelation. "One must have one's own life in this world, and one best," he observed enigmatically.

That is sitting on top of a pole.
The only reason why this man wishes to sit on the tip of a pole when laying can be accounted for only by the fact that he laid his first egg on a pole. When he was a small pullet she was frightened one day and flew to the top of a tall pole in the yard. The cock kept her there for some time, and during the time she laid her first egg. Never a fine thing had been laid in egg except when she was on the top of the pole. A pole has been set up for the purpose of laying, where she can make her placed around the pole to catch the eggs.—Kennebec Journal.

Fashions

New York City.—The blouse with the Dutch collar is a favorite one and is so essentially well adapted to the it is peculiarly well adapted to the young girl. This one can be made either with three-quarter sleeves distinct with rolled-over cuffs or with long sleeves that are cut in points

Close Sleeves.
If you wear long, close sleeves, the shoulder line should be long. Don't think to get the same effect with a short shoulder.

Sailor Ties Fashionable.
The sailor tie is the fashionable shoe. Its ribbon fastening has given way in many instances to a metal buckle, usually silver or steel. Patent leather is the material most used for day wear; the color of the gown for evening.

Long Coats Popular.
The long coat is the most popular form of wrap for street wear. Black broadcloth, broad trimmed, makes a practical, serviceable outer garment both on loose box lines and is becoming to the average girl.

For the Collar.
If you wish to make your woman friend a rather new little gift, get a piece of fine handkerchief linen, fold it over, hemstitch one side, make it just as deep as a little frill to go inside of a shallow collar. Such frills are very fashionable and somewhat resemble the little tucker frills our grandmothers used in white collars.
Fuffy neckwear is a prediction for the future and then let the short or full-necked woman beware.

Misses' Skirt.
Young girls are wearing skirts that give long, slender lines, just as are their elders, and this model is one of the most graceful and the smartest of a variety of materials. Pongee is being much used and is desirable for many uses.

simplest tailored sort and is adapted to

GARDEN, FARM and CROPS

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE UP-TO-DATE AGRICULTURIST

Breed Results.
Crossing two thoroughly well established breeds results in strong pigs that make good hogs, but the property should all be sold for pork. One series is permissible, but breeding crossbreeds results in nothing but mongrel stock.—Farmers' Home Journal.

Bad Ventilation.
Few dairy farmers really understand what good ventilation means.
It is a common thing to see a hay chute left open over the cows with the impression that it will create a current of air to ventilate the stable.
The fact is, a stable, to be ventilated, must have the air drawn off from near the floor. This is where the gas badly accumulates. A shaft that simply takes the best air from near the ceiling is of no use. You must lead to twenty percent heavier than pure air. The only system of ventilation that is worth the trouble will admit pure air from outdoors near the ceiling and draw off the foul air from near the floor. Anything short of this should not be called ventilating the stable.—Epitomist.

Poultry Pasture.
It is distressing to see poultry confined in a small, bare yard. It is a very short-sighted way to manage, as it is no more necessary to feed chickens all the stuff they eat than it is to feed cows in the stable the year round.

Training the Colt.
The old-fashioned term "breaking colts" has about gone out of date.
The word "training" now takes its place, and it certainly is much more fitting. When you hitch the colt up to his condition that you are his friend and are not going to hurt him, he will look to you for protection.
Teach him to work by offering him the best of his kindness. Have you noticed how much good it does a colt after he has been broken in? He is strong and probably thinks he has no friends, and he goes to him and talk to him

No. 5.

Children's Day a Success.

The Children's Day exercises at the Jeffersontown Baptist church Sunday evening were a decided success. The house was crowded to the fullest capacity, many having to remain on the outside. The children acquitted themselves admirably and everyone enjoyed the entertainment. Recitations, tableaux, etc., were the features. Little Miss Vena Waldrige won a nice Testament for collecting the greatest amount of money in mite boxes which had been given to the children. About eighteen dollars were raised, which is to be expended in the purchase of Bibles for the poor.

Death of Educator.

Prof. J. A. Hiner, 48 years of age, who for sixteen years held the chair of book-keeping at the Spencerian Commercial College, Louisville, died Tuesday morning at Blue Rock Hotel of pneumonia. His death came as a great shock to his many friends as but few knew of his serious illness. He had given many prominent business men their early business training and education. He was a Mason, Odd Fellow, a deacon of the Presbyterian church, and a member of the Knights of Pytheas and Knights and Ladies of Honor.

He is survived by his widow, who was Miss Logan of Shelbyville, and one son. The family has not yet decided whether the body will be buried in Cave Hill or taken to Staunton, Va., the old home of Prof. Hiner.

GREATEST VALUE FOR EVERY DOLLAR

You may investigate ALL pianos. The MORE you learn about every make the surer you will be that the Ellington Piano gives ALL you could wish—gives MORE in everything that determines piano value than any other at the price.

It gives you a DISTINCTIVE tone of marvelous durability, that APPEALING tone so loved by the home circle. It gives you a LIGHT, ELASTIC, RESPONSIVE action, the kind that AIDS and ENCOURAGES the performer. It gives you that sterling worth in every part which makes the Ellington the BEST piano investment on the market.

You get in it the greatest possible returns for every dollar because it is the product of one of the factories of an unequalled organization—The Baldwin Company.

The great timber lands owned by this company, the complete factory facilities, the army of expert workmen, the immense sales, all work toward a single result—the production of instruments whose quality at the price no other maker can attempt to approach.

The little son of Phil Graff a farmer near Hikes Point, on the Taylorsville road, sustained a fracture of the arm in a fall from a ladder. He was descending from the loft of his father's barn. He was attended by Dr. L. A. Blankenkner, of Jefferson-town.

Onions Bringing 80 Cents.

Hundreds of barrels of onions are being shipped from this place daily. The yield this year has been good, but the prices are very low, ranging from 75 to 80 cents per barrel. Two years ago growers received from $3.00 to $3.75 per barrel. Yesterday evening quite a number of farmers were compelled to return home with their onions on account of a shortage of cars, but we understand that more cars will be supplied to-day.
